HODGES STRIKES BACK AT ADVANCING NAZIS

U. S. FIRST ARMY REPULSES GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN WHAT MAY PROVE DECISIVE BATTLE

Allied Command Accepts Challenge of Field Marshal von Rundstedt in Belgium and Luxembourg Front

STRICT BLACKOUT ON DETAILED INFORMATION

By EDWARD KENNEDY

Paris, Dec. 18—(P)—Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' U. S. First Army struck back at advancing German columns of infantry and armor in Belgium and Luxembourg today in a fierce battle which may prove to be one of the most decisive of the war.

The Allied command accepted the challenge of Field Marshal Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt, who was attempting his greatest counteroffensive against American troops in Europe.

But the situation at the front was reported extremely fluid and for this reason supreme headquarters decided upon a strict blackout on detailed information concerning the extent of the enemy advance and the counter moves of the Americans.

However, front line dispatches said Hodges had thrown armor against the German thrusts, and that British Spitfires and Tempests came down from Holland to lend a hand to Allied air forces.

The German air force continued to support the German winter strike on the biggest scale since the Allied landings in Normandy.

A new type of V-weapon was used by the Germans along the 9th army front both by night and day.

More Nazi parachutists were dropped behind American lines last night. But these may have numbered no more than 10. Six were caught.

Tabulations from 9th tactical air command headquarters said 129 German planes had been shot down in 24 hours—more than 20 per cent of the number of carefully husbanded aircraft put over the lines by the German air force.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson, commander of the Ninth U. S. Army on Hodges' left flank, praised the work of the Allied tactical airmen, declaring that despite the great number of planes used by the Germans "they are not able to bother us a great deal."

The Germans cleared forward American positions along a 20 mile front had been overrun between Luxembourg and the Hohe Venn, "high marshland", a swampy tract 2,200 feet above sea level extending for 30 miles from Rotgen to Piesau.

Relief shipping has piled up at Piesau and yesterday a general strike was called in Salomka, where other vessels crammed with relief supplies remained unloaded.

Reds Hammer At Defenses Of Budapest

By EDDY GILMORE

Moscow, Dec. 18—(P)—Soviet big guns firing from newly won positions within 5½ miles of Budapest crashed an avalanche of steel against the inner defenses of the Hungarian capital today while Red army units reached the Slovak border at a new point 72 miles northeast of the city.

The scope of the Red army's Hungarian offensive was emphasized by the official Communist party newspaper, Pravda, which said that as many German divisions were engaged on the southern sector of the eastern front as against all the Allied forces in the west.

Pravda repeated figures purporting to show that 220 enemy divisions, 200 of them German, were held up in the east as of Dec. 1.

The Pravda article was directed against the U. S. army and navy journal for questioning whether Russia had fulfilled the military decisions of Teheran.

The Red army thrust to Slovakia, with the capture of 40 towns including Sura, representing a gain of 15 miles northwest of Miskolc.

Heinz Will Place Bulk of Its Advertising in Newspapers

Harrisburg, Dec. 18—(P)—A comprehensive survey before newspaper advertising budget for 45 "many times greater" than previous years has been decided upon by the H. J. Heinz Company, the Pennsylvania Association said today.

The PNPA said in a statement that H. J. Heinz, 11, president of the company, reports the company will discontinue sponsorship of the radio program "Information Please" and place the bulk of its future advertising in newspapers. Heinz told the association the vision was made as the result of

YANKS SECURE SOUTHERN END OF MINDORO

Airfield Being Whipped Into Shape for Use by American Planes in Blasting Manila

BLOODY FIGHT ON LEYTE

General MacArthur's Headquarters, Philippines, Dec. 18—(P)—Airfields were being whipped into shape today on the southern end of Mindoro island, now securely in American hands. Yank infantrymen were 11 miles from the beachhead they established at dawn Friday.

Only scant resistance was encountered, a spokesman reported. The Americans had command of strategic high ground and set up a wide defense six miles beyond the town of San Jose.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur said in his Monday communiqué "our hold on the southern part of the island is now secure."

On Leyte island to the southeast, troops of the 77th American division outflanked Japan's prize Yamashita line at the southern section of the Ormoc corridor and drove seven miles north toward an ultimate junction with Yank forces.

The Yank forces, estimated at about 200, had barricaded themselves in a brewery and were equipped with heavy machineguns.

The Kalamaki airport already had been cleared to a depth of 300 yards and British armored vehicles were traversing the road from Athens to Piesau.

Fighting increased over the weekend following rejection by British Commander Lt. Gen. R. M. Scobie of leaving EAM peace proposals.

RAF Spitfires and rocket-firing Beaufighters attacked Elas forces in the city yesterday after members of that military auxiliary of the EAM had opened up with heavy artillery and mortar fire.

Relief shipping has piled up at Piesau and yesterday a general strike was called in Salomka, where other vessels crammed with relief supplies remained unloaded.

Gains Extended By Eighth Army

Rome, Dec. 18—(P)—Eighth Army troops held a line along the Senio river today stretching five miles southward from the Bolognina highway, Allied headquarters announced.

The south anchor of the line was held by Polish troops who yesterday captured Limisano and Cassete in a drive toward the river against strong enemy resistance.

Canadian troops to the north made further gains near Bagnacavallo, while other Eighth Army units virtually cleared the Germans from captured Faenza, which fell to New Zealand troops yesterday. Headquarters said isolated pockets of enemy resistance still remain in the northern outskirts of the highway stronghold.

The Canadians have captured more than 1,100 prisoners since they launched their assaults west of the Montebello river two weeks ago, headquarters announced.

Despite reports that opponents will engage in a filibuster in ef-

Morning Mail Brings Big Smile To Face of Alias Santa Claus

This morning the gleam came back to Santa's eyes and the smile on his face grew broad as he deftly inserted his envelope opener into the flaps of his letters and took out a flock of checks. It was one of those days that the old boy felt it was good to be alive and engaged in the delightful task of aiding a flock of unfortunate to have a Merry Christmas.

"Of course," said Alias, "this mail looks good, but honestly, I can't help but feel that Warren folks are not doing so well by me this year as they have done in other years. They just don't seem to feel that the work is heavy this year, but just because a lot of folks have more money, there are others who do not. It is the ones without money that we must help. The folks with money must aid if we are going to do the job we have always done. I have my helpers already at work, and they are hustling to beat the band. By the way, if you have toys, clothing, etc., that can be used, better send it down to the Times-Mirror building. It can be used in a big way. Already Benj. Newmeyer has brought me a bag of toys that will find a new owner on Christmas eve."

In the mail this morning were the following gifts: A Friend, $1; Lucia B. Phillips, $1; Struthers-Wells Office Force, $14; A Friend, $2; Interested, $2; VFW Auxiliary, $5; Nellie H. Schwing, $1; Master Walter Reynolds, $1; Benj. Newmeyer, $1 and toys: Anonymous, $3, and Hammond Iron Works, $25.

His widow and a daughter, Harriet, in the WAVES, also survive.

His first position was that of messenger, and his advancement continued through all the clerical work of the bank. He became a teller in 1927, and it has been since that time that the patrons of the bank have become best acquainted with him. Warren Navigator Wins High Praise For His Performance Against Enemy Jet Pursuit Ship

An Eighth Air Force Bomber Station, England (delayed)—(P)—1st Lt. Albert L. Lucia, 22 year old flying Fortress navigator, of Warren, Pa., veteran of 27 daylight high-altitude missions on German targets, recently was awarded his third cluster to his air medal (in lieu of additional medals) for "meritorious achievement."

Former welder for Struthers-Wells Corp. at Warren, Lucia who has guided his aircraft to Cologne, Germany, some five times, was in first American heavy bomber formation attacked by a Messerschmitt-163 (jet-propelled pursuit ship).

The "Jettie", climbing straight up, went above the bomber before shutting off its power. It made a diving attack at the Fort's tail.

The bomber pilot nosed his heavy craft into a steep dive, throwing the German pilot off aim—he over-shot.

Two Mustang pilots, seeing the Fortress' plight, dove on the "Jettie" and were last seen pursuing it into the undercast over Leipzig.

On this mission one engine on Lucia's ship, "qualified quail," was stopped by a burst of flak. Limping on three engines, the Fort was attacked by several conventional German pursuit fighters.

A 20-mm. cannon shell ploughed through the tail gunner's compartment, narrowly missing him, and skewered the length of the ship. Spare water cans, bulkheads, control cables, and oxygen lines were cut and smashed.

Forced to leave the high-altitude formation, Lt. Lucia laid a course for home for his pilot across the low countries. They took the damaged bomber down to 9,000 feet because vital oxygen tanks were empty.

Two exploded 20-mm. shell fragments were found, after landing, in gasoline tanks. "It's a miracle the 'Qualified Quail' didn't make us a flaming coffin," Lucia said.

He wears a Saint Christopher's medal on every mission.

To relieve tension when flying, Lucia bounces their bomber over Cologne, Leipzig and "Happy Valley" (the Ruhr).

The German pilot nosed his heavy craft into a steep dive, throwing the German pilot off aim—he over-shot.

Two Mustang pilots, seeing the Fortress' plight, dove on the "Jettie" and were last seen pursuing it into the undercast over Leipzig.

"When the tension gets wound up to the breaking point," Lucia said, "Bismarck is cussed and discussed. An imaginary poach of unknown blood lines, he gets bawled out for not calling out fighter attacks in time.

"Like the time the 20-mm. traveled the length of the ship, it was Bismarck sitting on the top-turret's turntable who got the blame for not going back and warning the tail gunner. Like any pet he is poorly trained and is not a very responsible dog—but Bismarck is on every mission."

Lucia's first mission was to Chartres, Fr., on August 1st when Eighth Air Force heavies bombed airfields to pin-down the Luftwaffe and smashed bridges to prevent reinforcements being brought into the line as the Allies swing north to Paris.

Twenty-five of Lucia's 27 sorties were over Germany—flights of eight to nine hours. He has made 19 in "Anxious Angel" and eight in "Qualified Quail".

A graduate of Warren High School in 1939, he joined AAC December 12, 1942, and was commissioned March 18, 1944. He was sent to England July 13th.

Member of Moose Lodge 109, Lucia has two brothers in the service. Pfc. Peter Lucia, Jr., 534th Amphibious Tractor, is stationed in the South Pacific.

T Sgt. Daniel Lucia, with the Medical Department, is serving in a hospital in France. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Lucia, 908 Fourth Ave., Warren, Pa.

Japanese War Machines Feel Sledgehammer Blows of Up to 200 Bombers From Separate Bases

NC CLAIMS OF LOSSES

Washington, Dec. 18—(P)—The Japanese war machine felt the sledge blows today of up to 200 B-29 Superfortresses, unleashed from separate bases.

The giant craft struck a second time at Nagoya on the Nipponese mainland and at Hankow in Japanes-occupied China. The raiders hit both areas today, Japanese time; Sunday, by United States clocks.

Discrepancy from Saipan, mean-while, said photographic recon-naissance of the December 13 blow at Nagoya disclosed damage to the Hatsudoki aircraft factory was greater than first report indicated. Four large assembly buildings and 22 smaller structures were de-stroyed or damaged badly.

Enemy broadcasts, placing the size of the Nagoya raiding force at about 70, claimed damage was slight and added that other B-29s flew over the Kinki area in south central Honshu without dropping bombs. There were no claims of losses to the aerial giants.

Results of the latest strikes are still to be assayed here.

By VERN HAUGLAND

21st Bomber Command, Saipan, Dec. 18—(P)—(Via Navy Radio)—Superfortresses bombed Nagoya, Japanese industrial city, for about two hours today with approximately the same number of planes which staged the damaging raid of Dec. 13.

After the B-29s took off on to-day's raid, Brig. Gen. Haywood Hansell, Jr., 21st bomber command skipper, in a prepared statement said:

"Photographic reconnaissance has confirmed an earlier statement that the Hatsudoki factory of the Mitsubishi aircraft works was heavily damaged in the raid of Dec. 13. Two assembly buildings of 180,000 and 216,000 square feet are 70 and 60 percent gutted. It must be assumed that these two structures are completely out of operation at this time. Two main assembly buildings of 710,000 and 656,000 square feet are 13.5 and 48 percent burned out. The more severely damaged of the two buildings is probably out of operation."

Convocation of Electoral College Held on 48 Campuses

Washington, Dec. 18—(P)—The 1944 convocation of the electoral college was held today on 48 campuses.

It is a 150-year-old institution whose 531 members have a reputation in political science—for always picking the presidential winner.

Officially, it's the electoral college which elects President Roosevelt to a fourth term by a vote of 452 to 99 over Governor Thomas E. Dewey of New York. The members are casting their ballots today. They will be counted and recorded at a joint session of the senate and house here January 6.

The reason for all this is that the people never vote directly for a president. They elect electors, who in turn choose the president.

Back in 1796, an elector picked to support the winner actually voted for the defeated opponent.

Under the constitution, the number of electors in each state corresponds to the total of representatives and senators.

The newest Associated Press compilation of this year's popular vote showed today that President Roosevelt received 25,610,946 and Dewey 22,018,177 out of a total of 47,969,828. Other candidates received 340,705 votes.

Harrisburg, Dec. 18—(P)—Pennsylvania's presidential electors came to the state capital today to cast the commonwealth's 35 votes in the electoral college for President Roosevelt.

The noon meeting of the electoral college topped a full-day program for victorious Democrats.

Republican Governor Edward Martin was host at breakfast to the electors before convening of the electoral college in the senate chamber with Irwin D. Wolf, Pittsburgh department store executive as presiding officer.

FARM NEWS

Harrisburg, Dec. 18.—(P)—Pennsylvania farmers and poultrymen have been assured by War Food Administration officials that they are entirely free to sell as many chickens as they desire. E. J. Lawless, Jr., Bureau of Markets of the State Department of Agriculture, told anxious inquirers that the administrative order, effective last Monday, restricting sales of poultry in some neighborhoods did not apply to Pennsylvania.

Lawless explained that the War Food Administration had acted under orders of military authorities in restricting sales of poultry in the state of Delaware and in certain counties of Maryland, Virginia, and West Virginia in order to supply the needs of the army quartermaster's department. Poultry in the restricted areas will be shipped directly to the armed forces.

However, an acute shortage of fresh dressed chickens for Christmas and New Years dinners faces consumers in Philadelphia, New York, Pittsburgh, and other cities that depend largely upon the Delmarva and Shenandoah valley poultry sections for their chickens and turkeys, said Lawless.

This situation, together with the current scarcity of turkeys in metropolitan areas of the east, will cause many families to resort to other meats for the holidays, he added.

Large supplies of dressed chickens are now being held in the nation's cold storage plants, and Lawless pointed out that with the OPA price levels scheduled to advance on January 1, the owners of these storage supplies will hold their poultry in storage until the price advantage becomes effective.

The Federal-State Crop Reporting Service disclosed that despite unfavorable dry weather during most of the summer the home front food harvest in Pennsylvania was up to expectations.

Mild, open weather in the latter part of November enabled growers to complete late harvests and get in some needed fall plowing.

Soldier With Keen Sense of Smell Makes Quick Capture

By HAL BOYLE

With the Second Infantry Division Inside the Siegfried Line, Dec. 2—(Delayed)—(P)—A birddog might envy the success of Pfc. James Sliger whose keen sense of smell enabled him to capture two Germans and save his squad from possible annihilation.

During a recent advance the Sleggut, Iowa, doughboy smelled cigar smoke and immediately became suspicious. He cautiously sniffed his way along the trail of smoke until suddenly he saw a Nazi puffing away in nearby bushes.

Sliger advanced with his gun ready and two German machine-gunned came out and surrendered. They were so well hidden that they had been bypassed by Sliger's squad and were in a position to have cut his buddies down from behind.

In a hurry to join his advancing platoon Tech. Sgt. Edward F. Perry of Munising, Mich., looked around for someone to relieve him of three prisoners. He saw a figure in Olive drab and called:

"Hey, bub, how's about taking these prisoners back. I am pretty busy."

"All right," the other man answered quietly.

As he turned to leave Perry caught the glint of a silver eagle on the soldier's shoulder. He suddenly realized he had halted a full colonel as "Bub."

But the colonel just laughed and waved him on—and the sergeant didn't linger.

One German soldier who had stolen an overcoat from another Nazi trooper gave himself up to the Yanks recently rather than face a court martial.

There is a direct connection between Pvt. Fred G. Torres' violet face and his violent hatred of Hitler's buzzbombs.

A flying bomb explosion shook an uncorcked bottle of indelible ink from a shelf above his head and the writing fluid ran over his face and neck in a purple tide.

After scrubbing his face with every type of soap to be found in his division Torres has succeeded only in changing the color to a bilious green.

Dragonette Is Creditable Publication

The Christmas colors of red and green are effectively used in the December issue of the High School Dragonette, which made its appearance on Friday. Striped candy canes and a Santa Claus picture dress the front page, along with a verse of the national anthem and its promise of victory and peace to come.

Leading off the feature section is a fine tribute to the late Robert W. Mackay, treasurer of school board for many years and active worker for many community interests.

Articles, poetry and other contributions along general lines seem equally influenced by the holiday season and the servicemen's motif. Club departments contain names of officers elected in several instances and of plans for future activities.

In the editorial column, a plea is made for continued support of our service men on the home front and a challenge to "keep that 'V' over the front steps for the rest of the school year". The "V" referred to is the red, white and blue letter that is placed out front when the school has gone out and records 100% in sales of war bonds and stamps.

"HAPPY DAYS" FOR TITUSVILLE SOLDIER

Harrisburg, Dec. 18—There was an increase of two points in the index of prices received by Pennsylvania farmers for principal agricultural products during the month ended November 15, the State Department of Agriculture announced today in a survey by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service. On the basis of average prices received 1909-14 as 100, the index for all products advanced from 207 to 209. While there was a decline of 3 points in prices received for all farm crops to 204, it was more than offset by an increase of 3 points in livestock and livestock products to an index of 211 during the period October 15 to November 15.

TO ALL MONTGOMERY WARD PEOPLE

1. The reason given for the strike in Wards four Detroit stores is that Wards has refused to comply with an order of the National War Labor Board. This order seeks to impose upon Wards a closed shop in the form of maintenance of membership together with the check-off of union dues from wages.

2. The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia has held that orders of the War Labor Board are merely "advice" which no one has any legal duty to obey. The Court held that anyone who refuses to comply with orders of the War Labor Board is not defying a command of the Government and that since the orders are merely advisory, no Government official has the right to impose punishment on those who do not comply. The Supreme Court has refused to alter this decision.

3. Wards has refused to agree to any form of closed shop, or compulsory union membership. The closed shop, including maintenance of membership, violates the American principles of liberty and freedom. Liberty requires that every employee be free to join, refuse to join, or resign from a union without losing his job. Liberty requires that Wards be free to employ workers, and to continue to employ them, on a basis of merit—union members and non-members alike.

4. Each employee at Wards is free to join or not to join a union, as he wishes. Wards fully recognizes this privilege and assures all employees that their opportunity with the company will be the same whether they are union members or not.

SOME WARREN COUNTY PEOPLE DO THEIR PART!

Though the latest figures available indicate that hundreds less people are buying War Bonds in the 6th War Loan as bought them last time in Warren County, there is one bright ray of sunshine gleaming through the general gloom down at War Finance headquarters.

Some of our local citizenry, at least, are demonstrating their patriotism and good Warren County common sense by going in for War Bonds as they never have before—the so-called "large individual investors". This is plain from a study of the latest Federal Reserve Bank figures.

While there is no escaping the fact that "E" bond purchases are lagging shamefully in Warren County (and more particularly, right here in Warren borough!) it is also a fact that this time, for the first time in any War Bond drive, our county will meet the extremely high quota assigned to it for "Individual purchases other than "E's".

Our quota was $550,000 and on December 11th purchases of "other than E" bonds by individuals had reached $508,000, or 91% of quota! Known purchases since then, and others to come before month-end, should easily make the figure of $550,000 an accomplished fact.

Put in ordinary language, it looks like some of our people know a good thing when they see it, and are in there doing their part to back up the boys and girls at war to the tune of a cool half-million. Maybe this is a lesson to us buyers of "E" bonds—which, in case you didn't know it, pay the most interest of all war bonds.

GERMAN COUNTER-OFFENSIVE

The savage German counter-offensive along the U. S. First Army front in the Rhineland bears the marks of being an effort to prevent an early American crossing of the Roer river at the key city of Duren, and so to postpone the dread day of reckoning with the Allies on the open plain of Cologne.

As a matter of fact there have been signs recently that General Eisenhower himself was about ready to launch another major offensive, revolving about a thrust over the Roer. Nazi Field Marshal von Rundstedt has struck shrewdly to throw the Allied line off balance and delay this drive.

The desperate mood of the Germans in what may be their last great offensive in the west is shown by a dispatch from Belgium reporting that the Nazis massacred 150 unarmed American prisoners in one sector, and that Nazi non-coms were shooting wounded doughboys on the battle-field. So the true spirit of Hitlerian barbarism is on the move again.

The fact that the Germans have been using more air power than they have employed in western Europe since D-Day is highly significant of the importance they attach to the crisis that has been developing rapidly on the banks of the Roer, which shields the Cologne plain from the west. They long have been so short of warplanes, oil and gasoline that the Luftwaffe is brought into play only in grave emergencies.

While actually there have been three battles proceeding along the water-logged, weather-plagued Allied front the fierce conflict in the Aachen-Duren sector has remained the crucial one. This is, of course, the main gateway to Cologne and so on into the Ruhr—heart of the Reich's war industries.

Warren stores will be open each evening this week through Friday until nine o'clock. But don't forget, they open at nine o'clock in the morning too.

The S. R. O. sign already out for holiday train travel. Well, anyway, it'll be easier to bum a ride than a carfare.

The Japs are reported evacuating Tokyo. That recent earthquake must have hit harder than we thought.

Cold shots are worthless, a medical group has concluded. The same is true of a lot of so-called "hot shots."

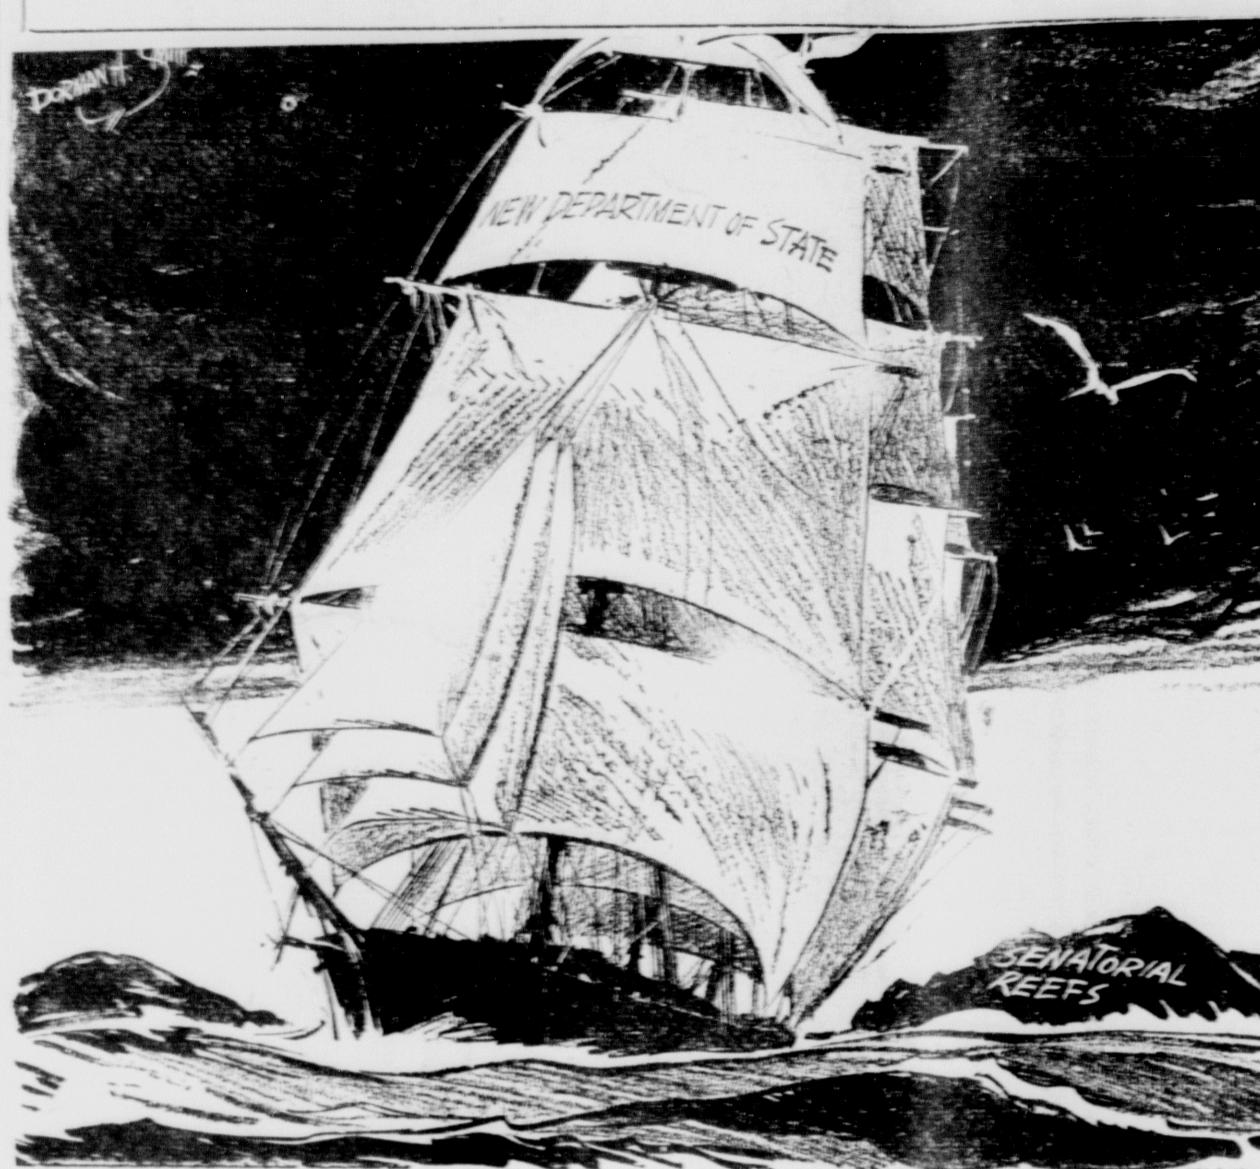

If the receipts from the parking meter show a slump for December the city dads can blame it on the Weatherman!

Keep Faith. Today read 1 Corinthians 15.

Chapter 26
THE men surrounding Callahan saw Jason's attack coming and sprang to defend themselves from this new danger.

Callahan snatched a cutlass from the hands of a wounded man and leaped down the steps, waving the weapon above his head. As he charged, he let out a bull-like bellow of rage. This surprise attack by Jason and his men, engineered by the traitor, Caleb, might mean the wreck of all his plans.

Confident in their superior numbers, the men about Callahan charged down the steps behind him in a yelling horde.

Doctor Webb saw this attack on Jason and his men. Above the din of battle his sonorous voice resounded in the palace rooms, "Shoot, shoot!" In answer to his exhortation there was a shout from the defenders of the palace.

As Jason charged, a man went down on his right—Jasper White. Jason realized in a flash of recognition. The old soldier failed to get up, lay with face half buried in the short grass. His shoulders heaved once and were still. He had given his life for the Blakes' he had served for so long.

Jason dashed on, mad with rage, flourishing his cutlass and shouting encouragement to his men. They swarmed about him, driving frantically. Jason's face was lit up for a moment by the fire of battle.

A revolution had begun. The body of a gun muzzle near him. He was flinched, his eyes glowing with the fire of battle. A revolution had begun at him with a roar. He dodged, then turned on the ball of his right foot and cut the man down with a swift slashing stroke of his blade. The body sagged and sprawled at his feet. Jason was in the lead now, slashing right and left furiously like a young god of war.

Jason now realized that the advancing force outnumbered his men. He shouted an order that they drop behind some bushes and fire on Callahan's main body as it approached. Shots now roared from all sides. Bodies of the revolutionists lay along the steps to the palace and before the great doors. Others joined the open space in front of Jason. The stream of lead that poured into them from the palace helped spread disorder in the revolutionists' ranks.

THEY had not counted on the fight lasting this long. Callahan had not supposed that the thing would be over after the first rush. He had not figured on the unexpected strength of the palace defenders.

Jason came to a lone tree which held in a crotch a nearly half-burned kukul-nut torch. The torch fanned by a passing breeze, blazed up, lighting the scene right in front of Jason. His huge body thrown into harsh relief by the blazing torch, stood Captain Callahan. His shirt was torn to shreds, his arms were bloody. Bloodshot eyes glaring, he swayed drunkenly. He still clutched the cutlass in his right hand. The weapon was smeared now with blood.

When he saw Jason he snarled and came rolling forward. The cutlass shot up swiftly and came slashing at Jason's head. A savage, silent, deadly blow. When it landed, would have finished Jason Blake.

Jason side-stepped and lashed out with his own cutlass. Callahan parried the blow expertly, cursed and lunged again. Jason evaded the thrust, slashed back and felt his blade land solid on bone. He saw, however, that it had been only a glancing stroke with the side of the cutlass. Callahan roared with pain and came lurching forward. Again his weapon rose and fell. Jason caught the blow on the guard of his cutlass. The force of the stroke knocked him backward, his foot caught in a rut and he fell. He felt a numbing pain in his shoulder. As he struggled to regain his balance, Callahan lunged again. Jason had wit enough to twist his body to one side and so dodge that wicked, down-swinging blade.

Jason was balanced on one knee, his eyes fixed warily on Callahan.

Thankfully, he turned away to look for Caleb.

More Turkeys Expected For Tables at the Yuletide Season

Harrisburg, Dec. 18—Western turkeys for Christmas dinners are beginning to arrive in some sections of Pennsylvania, and it is expected by the Bureau of Markets, State Department of Agriculture, that they will be available in greater numbers than for Thanksgiving in the metropolitan areas.

At the same time the Bureau, as the result of surveys this week, said that relief from the current shortage of top grade fresh eggs is in sight. Receipts and sales at cooperative egg auctions in the State made a substantial jump last week and the increase is being maintained this week. According to E. J. Lawless, Jr., in charge of the poultry and egg division of the Bureau, there is a definite indication that hens and pullets on Pennsylvania farms have started the early winter increase in eggs laid.

Reports from producers indicate that they are having no difficulty in getting orders direct from consumers. But they are experiencing difficulty in filling the orders.

Be Careful With Electric, Kerosene And Oil Heaters, Albaugh Warns

Glancing at the thermometer at Central Fire Station, which at the moment registered two degrees above freezing, Fire Chief Charles Albaugh had this comment to make:

"I hope the people of Warren will match the fuel shortage this winter with a shortage of avoidable fires."

He explained that he had observed that many housewives in trying to solve the fuel shortage were making use of electric, kerosene and oil heaters.

"This may be a patriotic and satisfactory substitute for the usual heating system, but it also means they will have to be more careful about the possibility of fire," the fire chief said.

Chief Albaugh outlined several measures local housewives should take to see that their home, and therefore, the community, does not suffer from avoidable fires.

"First, if you use kerosene or oil heaters, be sure they are installed properly and safely so that they can't upset and start fires," the chief said.

"Don't put them where people can fall over them—or too near woodwork, curtains or rugs—and never let anyone in the room light a match," he advised.

"Be sure all flames are out while you do this, and try not to spill the fluid, as a spark may set fire to the spill," he said.

"If you use an electric heater," the chief continued, "be just as careful with combustible materials near it and see that the highest temperature it reaches is safe. Nearby articles may be ignited if it gets too hot."

"Remember that if, in spite of all your care, you do have a fire, it helps to be prepared for such an emergency. Keep your fire extinguisher ready for use and in a handy place. And of course, be sure someone in the house knows how to turn in a fire alarm."

Chief Albaugh concluded by reviewing the precautions that should be observed even with the customary heating methods:

"Remove rubbish from the cellar, put hot ashes and embers in metal containers, bank the furnaces properly, and keep furnaces, chimneys, and flues clean and in good condition. Clean, well-repaired heating equipment gives better, and safer performance for less fuel."

Kane Lead at the Half, 23-14; Dragons Rally to Outscore Wolves 33-9 in Last Period

Outscoring the Kane Wolves 22 to 5 in the third period, Joe Massa's Dragon five annexed a thrilling comeback to trounce the Hilltoppers, 47-32, after trailing at halftime by a 23-14 margin. Tom Juliano, coming through with magnificent calmness, racked up 17 points, followed by Joe Scalise with 11. High-scoring Scalise was injured early in the game and was forced out of action for almost the entire first period.

Whatever happened to the Warren crew at Kane Friday night is a story that cannot be told by anyone except the players themselves. And they are at a loss of memory to uncover the facts concerning their first half downfall in the Kane encounter, and their excellent task of "finding" themselves is a long, long story.

After making the trip to the Kane hills, the Dragon five must have gone onto the Kane hardwood with expectations of an extremely easy battle, but the Edwards-coached crew pulled a fast surprise in the first half and the local quint trailed almost the whole first quarter.

Bob Hammerbeck led off with the opening basket, but the Warren lead was quickly demolished as the Wolves' big center came through with two excellent under-the-basket shots and Jimmy Baumann dropped in two goals, followed by a Kane foul throw. When the first quarter whistle sounded, the score stood 9-4 with the Hilltop five in front. The first half was Kane without a doubt, and the Dragon five couldn't seem to get its usual first quarter attack going.

Joe Scalise, heavily banked upon as leading the Dragons in the Kane fray, smashed into the wall soon after Hammerbeck's opening bucket and was forced out of the game for the first period, but came back full steam in the remaining three stanzas and annexed 11 markers.

The second eight minutes was also "all Kane," although the Massa crew was beginning to get the "knack" of the game and started to come closer to the Kane tally mark. In that period the Wolves counted 14 points to the (Turn to Page Fourteen)

New York, Dec. 15 — Several National Football League rookies gave spectacular performances during the season but only one, Steve Van Buren of the Philadelphia Eagles, made the All-Pro team selected by The Associated Press and newspaper sports writers.

It's quite an eleven the experts have named for 1944 honors.

There are four men who were on last year's team, three second-year men, two three-year men, and one veteran of an All-team a few years back.

The Eagles, New York Giants and Chicago Bears each landed two men. The Washington Redskins Green Bay Packers, Brooklyn Tigers, Detroit Lions and Cleveland Rams all place one player.

The veteran Packers' end, Don (Clutch) Huston, who has won national honors seven years in a row, heads the repeaters from 1943. The others are Frank (Bruiser) Kinard, Tiders' tackle; Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, Packers' center; and Sid Luckman, Bears' quarterback.

Moving on to the sophomores on the team, they are Bill Paschal, Giants' fullback, the greatest League ground gainer for two years; Frank (Fireball) Sinkwich, one of the leading rushers and passers in the circuit, a tough hombre to smack down.

The three-year men are Len Younce, Giants' guard and Joe Aguirre, Redskins' end. Guard Riley Matheson, of the Rams who played his sixth season, made the All-pro team in 1942.

Huston, Kinard, Turner, Younce and Sinkwich were unanimous choices of all the ballotters. Huston was the only unanimous choice in 1943.

Most of the experts said that "the Pro league ain't what it used to be."

The five players on which they all agreed were away ahead of any others. All selectors noted that it was tougher to name a backfield than the seven men in the line.

Among the boys who kept the ballotters on edge were George Wilson and Steve Pritik, Bears' and Rams' ends; Frank Cope and Buford Ray, Giants' and Packers' tackles.

Bruno Banducci of the Eagles and Augie Lio of Boston also received a few votes for the guard slot. Mel Hein of the Giants, Alex Wojciechowicz of the Lions and Charley Brock of Green Bay were well liked as pivot men.

Frank Filchock of Washington just missed making the quarterback spot. Luckman's name and reputation were too much for him. Johnny Grigas, the Cards-Pitt back who quit two games before the end of the season, hurt his chances by his action.

Only 11 Shopping Days Left IN THE SIXTH WAR LOAN!

The Treasury Department has extended the closing date of the 6th War Loan to December 31st.

That leaves you just 11 more days to buy Bonds that will count toward Warren County's 6th War Loan quota.

And Warren County needs every extra Bond you can buy if our quota is to be met. To date we stand at only 74.4% of our total quota!

These are the true facts. There is no big purchase being held back that will pull Warren county out of the hole at the last minute. We aren't "fooling" about where we actually stand.

The final figures in the 6th War Loan will be given national publicity, and unless we, the PEOPLE of Warren County, start buying more Bonds, we're NOT going to be proud when those final standings are published—and they're not going to make sweet reading to those of our thousands of Warren County men and women in service who read them at their battle posts.

It's going to look like the folks at home are letting them down! Can we afford that?

But there's still time—lots of it!—to change this picture. And it's up to YOU to do it. There can't be any waiting around for "George" to do it. It resolves itself right down to your personal responsibility. It's the EXTRA Bonds YOU buy in the next 11 days that will change the picture—and the ONLY thing that will!

If no one has called on you, don't wait any longer. Telephone 2948 TOMORROW
